IE-CAMFT Meeting January 27, 2012

Leaky Guts, Leaky Brains: The Role of Stress, Inflammation, and Gastrointestinal Imbalances in Various Psychiatric Conditions

Objectives:

To obtain basic awareness of how to:

1. Recognize presence of a psychiatric disorder which may have genesis in body chemistry imbalance.
2. Treat persons whose compromised functioning arises from gastrointestinal imbalances.
3. Understand how our body's system of organs is also a massively interconnected set of chemical and cellular processes.
4. Become more effective in treating clients by having a more adequate cognitive model of "what's going on" in a body, in a person.

Speaker:

Dr. Pejman Katiraei
Loma Linda University Healthcare
25845 Barton Road

Leaky Guts, Leaky Brains: The Role of Stress, Inflammation, and Gastrointestinal Imbalances in Various Psychiatric Conditions

Our current medical model focuses on pharmaceutical neurotransmitter balancing as a means of treating psychiatric conditions such as ADHD, anxiety, and depression. There are times that this model works well. There are times it does not.

The body functions as one unified whole. An imbalance in one organ system can affect any other. The gastrointestinal tract is one of the largest organ systems in our body. What most people do not realize is that the gastrointestinal tract is intimately tied to the central nervous system through the blood stream and peripheral nervous system. Imbalances in the gastrointestinal tract create imbalances in neuronal function. Imbalances in the gastrointestinal tract can manifest as symptoms of ADHD, anxiety, and even depression.

Please join us to learn about the gut-brain connection and how simple dietary change and supplementation can profoundly influence the well being of your patients.

- * 2 CEUs available for full attendance at IE-CAMFT meeting.
- * IE-CAMFT members: No additional cost. It's a benefit.
- * Non IE-CAMFT members: $10.00.

IE-CAMFT Mission Statement:

We are professional visionaries dedicated to providing training, networking, and advocacy for Marriage and Family Therapists to promote healthy individual, and couple and family relationships.

President's Message:

We smile at those who dare make New Year's resolutions, for we professionals are fully aware of human fallibility. Perhaps we ourselves, before we knew any better, have had the humbling experience of seeing our good intentions drop by the wayside as life pressed onward. We've been there, done that!

As we encounter our clients on their return from the back home visit and/or the holiday fling, should we cast cold water on their New Year resolutions? We're not entitled to feel superior, we who have done---and unwittingly still do the very same thing. I refer to setting forth specific goals, though I grant this is a cut above the attempt to pull one's self up by one's own bootstraps. The cooperative effort between therapist and client calls for a more realistic assessment of the options available to this particular patient at this particular time.

Our first step should be to validate the resolve that went into former and present resolutions. That frees clients from justifying themselves or feeling like failures. "Why make them when you always break them?"--- goals, that is! At least our experience indicates here is one who deeply desires change, and fully intends to change. But how do we respond to the deflating discovery their good intentions are not enough? The therapist's options are many.

1. Explore the reactions to the disappointment.
  - a. I like myself less---makes it harder for others to like me.
  - b. I'm about to believe I cannot make a difference--I'm not in charge of me.
  - c. This depresses me and tempts me live it up and forget about tomorrow.
  - d. I'm a stranger to myself and less able to cope with life's demands of me.
2. How do I (the client) account for what happened to me?
  - a. Extropunitive = Others are to blame. But they're not here, are they? What do you do to provokes them? Do they treat everyone else like that? Follow up: You grant you're abrasive. Who modeled that for you?
  - b. Intropunitive = No one's fault but mine. OK, what got in your way? Or, do you suppose you're entitled to nothing, that you're an undeserving person. Or Who has treated you as rotten as you're treating yourself?

President's Message (continued-1):

- c. Impunitive = Nobody's fault. It's the way things are. = There is not a single world, but we all live in overlapping worlds. So long as we keep in touch, we arrive at a working consensus on how things are. In short, have you?
  - d. Owning my behavior, taking responsibility = Learning from my mistakes, "knowing when to hold, when to fold," eyes open for an option I hadn't seen before. Note how acknowledging my glitch disarms others, now ready to help.
3. Avoiding obvious mistakes.
    - a. trying harder, doing more of the same = the better choice may be to do less of the same, and not tensing up, gritting one's teeth. Do less, not more.
    - b. making an impulsive hasty response = has someone put a deadline on you? Did you ask for a delay? Ready to show a considered response is better for all..
    - c. procrastinating = When the other isn't rushing you, why avoid, doing some preparation rather than waiting for the last minute, yielding a sloppy result. Do you always back off from requirements. Why not meet them head on?

We who have committed ourselves to helping others are not likely to be among those alluded to above, for we are already doing what we believe we should be doing. Our effort bends us toward doing it better. We know this is a never ending process.

We are not focused on the ever receding bottom line. It suffices to know we're headed in the right direction. We've learned to trust our intuitions, test them out, let them go when they don't work, and turn elsewhere as other hunches come to us along the way.

We listen to others but retain the deciding vote. Resolutions tend to be very specific. More often they are concerned with what we don't want to do. We think of many good reasons why we shouldn't do this or that---which we've known all along. And passively flowing with the tide hasn't been in our interest.

Sometimes there's competition between what I need and what I want. Take a closer look at what you want.

1. What happens if you get it? What next? Down the road?

2. What happens if you don't get it? In either instance, what does this say about who you are? That if you get it, you deserved it? If you don't get it you didn't deserve it. Does it make difference how you got it?

This goes to means and ends. Means are always implicit in whatever ends you achieve. Do you want your means to go on record? Do you prefer to keep your means a secret? What does this say about you?

But let us suppose the means are worthy, and you're willing to work at what you want. If what you want is scarce---that is, does one person's gain necessitate another's loss. Is this OK?

President's Message (continued-2):

Suppose it would be great to get what you want, but your best efforts are insufficient. Perhaps you shouldn't have gone alone. Maybe others are willing to help, and would be pleased to see you get what you want---for what you want is something good to be shared, nor hoarded---nor displayed as a trophy. Be sensitive to the possibility that your success may be experienced as a 'put down' to someone else.

Make a friend of theories, but don't marry them. Rather than avidly partisan, be open to modifications. This will save you from becoming opinionated, as if you have all the answers. The lifetime of a theory may be shorter than you expect.

Meanwhile, put into service what you already believe. In dialogue, there is the surface level, both for you and for me, of which we're well aware, but underneath there is what we fail to mention. All the while our surface interaction goes on, we know what we experience, and we presume what the other experiences. Check it out. We may discover something neither of us know.

We are interaction experts, ever aware that relationships involve interlocking triangles, where two fuse isolating a third, and the pattern involves both immediate and remote generations. Help your client discover what you know full well. This year's story may come to be better than last years, if we plan and work accordingly.

IE-CAMFT Speaker January 27, 2012

Dr. Pejman Katiraei is a board certified pediatrician and integrative medicine practitioner. Dr. Katiraei completed his Bachelor's of Science in biology at UCLA and then obtained a doctorate in osteopathic medicine from Western University of Health Sciences.

He completed his pediatric residency at Loma Linda University Children's Hospital and then spent an additional year as Chief Resident to assist in running the residency program and teaching pediatric residents.

Subsequently, Dr. Katiraei went on to complete his fellowship in integrative medicine under the direction of Dr. Andrew Weil at the University of Arizona. He is now an Assistant Professor of Pediatrics in the Loma Linda University School of Medicine. He founded and directs the Loma Linda University Wholistic Medicine Clinic where he has helped numerous children and adults become free of psychiatric dis-ease through diet and supplementation. Dr. Katiraei is also has a private practice in LifeSpan Medicine in Santa Monica, CA.

You are invited...

Hi, I'm Jeanne Joslin. I, along with Janetta Peltz make up the "Networking Luncheon Committee." Our current plan is to hold at least three networking luncheons per year. We invite and encourage you to take time after our January meeting to relax and socialize at our first 2012 luncheon. This will be a fantastic, super, marvelous opportunity to network and get to know one another better. Let's face it: we all have demanding schedules with plenty of tight deadlines and things to do. However, would you consider committing to attend just one of these luncheons this year and see if you don't agree it was worth the extra hour or two you took to slow down and enjoy? Let's be honest, don't we encourage our clients to do this very thing? So why not follow our own sound advice?

Our first luncheon is scheduled for January 27, 2012 at 11:20 a.m. following our IE-CAMFT meeting.

Location: The Old Spaghetti Factory, 1635 Industrial Park Avenue, Redlands. It's about a 10-minute drive from our meeting site (B.H.I.). Directions from meeting site: Turn left out of the parking lot onto Barton Rd., then turn left onto Alabama. Drive about 2-3 miles and turn left onto Industrial Park Avenue. The restaurant is just past Marie Calendar's on the left. Hope to see you there!!

We always welcome recommendations for luncheon locations, themes, etc. Contact me, or Janetta, or any of the Board members with your ideas. Thank you so much. May 2012 be a happy, prosperous one for you.

- Jeanne J.

I really like the IE-CAMFT programs offering CEUs to help maintain my LMFT licensure. How about you!

IE-CAMFT Sponsored Training Introduction to Emotional Transformation Therapy™ Friday, March 9, 201

Emotional Transformation Therapy™ (ETT™) is a form of therapy that uses precise visual brain stimulation to amplify principles of interpersonal neuroscience to achieve rapid recovery from a wide range of psychological disorders. ETT™ is both a means for diagnosing and treating for complex trauma, depression, anxiety disorders, ADD, and many more. Among the achievements of ETT™ are the following:

- Reduction of emotional distress in seconds
- Alleviation of physical pain in minutes
- Rapid identification and correction dissociation
- Rapid retrieval of relevant implicit memory and affect
- Rapid access and relief of somatic memory
- Rapid elimination of addictive craving
- Rapid facilitation of states of extreme wellbeing

Schedule

- Thinking outside the box about therapy
- Directing neural impulses to the circuits of the brain responsible for symptoms through visual stimulation
- The new eye movement psychotherapy
- Peripheral eye stimulation
- Spectral resonance technique
- Live demonstrations with volunteers
- Brain scan findings and other research related to ETT™

Learning Objectives

Participants will be able to:

- Identify how principles of interpersonal neurobiology are used to regulate emotions.
- Describe how visual stimulation is used to rapidly access neural circuits.
- List three outcomes observed from the use of multidimensional eye movement for rapid trauma recovery.
- List three therapeutic outcomes from the use of the spectral resonance technique.
- Describe how peripheral eye stimulation is used to rapidly reduce or eliminate physical pain.

What Can ETT™ and Multidimensional Eye Movement Do?

Address symptoms of the following: • Acute stress disorder • Posttraumatic stress disorder • Complex trauma • Phobias • Anxiety • Panic • Depression • Attention deficit hyperactive disorder • Migraine headaches • Physical pain from injuries • Fibromyalgia • Arthritis • Back pain

IE-CAMFT Membership Has its Benefits:

Membership in the Inland Empire Chapter of CAMFT requires a membership in CAMFT. There are multiple benefits to belonging to both. For more information on membership benefits or how to join, see the membership enrollment or renewal form on page 8; or contact Garry Raley for assistance. Membership may be initiated or renewed any time during the year. But keep in mind the membership year runs from April to March 30.

Benefits: You get to

- Network
- Receive at no cost, 2 CEUs at each of 9 Monthly Meeting, and
- Attend special Law and Ethics Meeting and receive 6 CEUs at reduced cost.
- Stay Connected to Other Therapists
- Advertise for Free
- Develop Peer Relations to Reduce Isolation
- Give and Receive Consultation and Referrals
- Increase Your Knowledge

Reflections:

An absence, the decline of a dinner invitation, an unintentional coldness, can accomplish more than all the cosmetics and beautiful dresses in the world.

- Proust

Dear Members: Who's next?

One of the best known ways to build your practice is to get into the community and speak about your expertise. And, your local association of therapists is interested in learning new theories, skills, tools, and approaches to treatment. Share your knowledge, experience and wisdom with us!

I am looking for presenters for this future IE-CAMFT meeting in 2012:

Friday September 28 9:00—11:00 am

I'd be thrilled with 1) your self-nomination, or 2) recommendations of other talented folks.

Call or text me at 951-347-1837, or e-mail me at Doreen@ABetterWayCenter.com

Check-in 8:30 - 9:00 a.m. Workshop 9:00 a.m. - 4:00 p.m.

Hilton Garden Inn
1755 S. Watermen Ave.
San Bernardino, CA 92408

NEW LOCATION

Dave Jensen has been Staff Attorney with CAMFT since April of 2002. Dave graduated from Brigham Young University with a Bachelor's Degree in History, and received his law degree from the Thomas Jefferson School of Law in San Diego, California. As an attorney with CAMFT, Dave consults with CAMFT's members regarding their legal and ethical dilemmas, and is a regular contributor to The Therapist magazine. Dave gives numerous chapter, school and agency law and ethics presentations and has developed What Does the Law Expect of Me? Parts I - IV.

What Does the Law Expect of Me? Part III

Although the psychotherapist-patient privilege is one of the most important concepts in law for a therapist to understand, many therapists struggle with understanding the fundamental concepts of the doctrine because it seems so esoteric. In this third part of his popular What Does the Law Expect of Me series, CAMFT Staff Attorney Dave Jensen will focus on the psychotherapist-patient privilege. Attendees will acquire an in depth understanding of the psychotherapist-patient privilege, including how it differs from other privileges; how and when it is created; how and when it is destroyed; the difference between a limited waiver as opposed to a complete waiver of it; and, various exceptions to it. Attendees will also be taught the ins and outs of responding to subpoenas. Although this is an advanced class, it is not necessary to have attended Parts I and II to enroll and benefit.

Learning Objectives:

1. To educate therapists about the contours of the psychotherapist-patient privilege.
2. To improve the level of discourse among therapists regarding the psychotherapist-patient privilege.
3. To prepare therapists to respond to subpoenas.
4. To inform therapists about the distinctions between percipient, expert, and treating-expert witnesses.
5. To educate therapists about the most common exceptions to the psychotherapist-patient privilege.
