FAMILY SYSTEMS THERAPY: BRIEF AND EFFECTIVE SOLUTIONS FOR KIDS AND TEENS

Featured Presenter: Marilyn Wedge, PhD

Not every childhood or adolescent problem is biological, and not every cure is a drug! In this presentation, you will learn the top ten reasons why kids have problems and the top 20 strategies to help kids resolve inattentiveness, depression, behavioral problems, anxiety, and many other challenges.

If you were intrigued by family systems therapy in your graduate program and would like to have further practical training in this brief and effective technique, this presentation is for you. Family therapy does not mean that the entire family has to be present at every session. The talk will address the question of who should be present at the sessions and how to structure them.

Objectives:

1. List the top ten reasons that children have problems.
2. List the top 20 strategies for helping troubled children and teens.
3. Learn how to elicit the family system problem from a child or teenager.
4. Learn how to approach individual psychological problems from a family systems point of view.

"PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE"

-DOREEN VAN LEEUWEN

Dear Colleagues,

Synergy. The coming together of disparate energies to form something different, possibly greater, but certainly reflecting the combining of the energies and elements involved.

The passing of a loved one opens wide the door to change, and potentially, synergistic events. My spouse Theo's transition from this life to what lies beyond has catapulted me into a multiplex of changes. Instantaneously.

So I've decided to make good on all those offers of help from family, friends, acquaintances.

I am asking for help, whenever and wherever I can. This has been good for me on so many levels! One of the profound lessons I am learning from this is how the feedback, opinions, and labors of others, combined with my own, is producing a lot of opportunities for synergy.

Ralph Evans from Bamboo Headquarters is helping me design a watering and yard maintenance system that I can manage. Together we are figuring out a practical yet beautiful way to allow Theo's gardening prowess to continue its flourishing legacy. Synergy.

Jose Soto, and his dad Ambrosio are marvelously helping me renovate my home. Their years of experience add wisdom to my redesign ideas, and together, those ideas are melding into a lovely space that I can comfortably live and work in. Synergy.

And, at IE-CAMFT, it happens too. Garry Raley, Jeanne Joslin, Angie Moxey and Janetta Peltz coordinated another very successful Law and Ethics Training, taught by David Jensen our CAMFT attorney in residence. These events are so beneficial for us as providers, and I am so grateful for their volunteerism! Synergy.

Now I am asking each of you to help me, by considering how you will "pay it forward" to your profession in 2013. Some upcoming opportunities are just around the bend; it is time to nominate people for the 2013-2014 "Board" and we would love to have your name on that slate. Make the choice to volunteer and become part of the synergy that makes great things happen!

Get involved with IE-CAMFT today!

IE-CAMFT MEMBERSHIP HAS ITS BENEFITS!

Membership in the Inland Empire Chapter of CAMFT requires a membership in CAMFT. There are multiple benefits to belonging to both. For more information on membership benefits or how to join, see the membership enrollment or renewal form on page 12; or contact Garry Raley for assistance. Membership may be initiated or renewed any time during the year.

For your $40 yearly investment you can:

- ✓ Network
- ✓ Receive 2 Gratis CEUs Available at Each of 9 Monthly Meetings
- ✓ Attend Special Law and Ethics Meeting with 6 CEUs at Reduced Cost
- ✓ Stay Connected to Other Therapists
- ✓ Advertise in this Newsletter
- ✓ Develop Peer Relations to Reduce Isolation
- ✓ Give and Receive Consultation and Referrals
- ✓ Increase Your Knowledge

All the benefits listed above arise from, shall we say, “just showing up.” It has been said that for much of life, half the job is “just showing up.” This might be characterized as the passive approach to involvement with IE-CAMFT. However, even more benefits are available through active involvement.

Active means volunteering your time, talents, and energies by following through after enthusiastically saying YES to the following question:

Will you support IE-CAMFT by volunteering to fill one or more of its organizational roles?

Contact Doreen Van Leeuwen to increase your activity with our board. The board positions of President-Elect and CEU Chair are open. Committees such as Hospitality, Membership, and Trauma Network need added leadership and participation.

Now, you get the benefits for active IE-CAMFT participation: Increased self-esteem and connection in the relationship healing community. Participation at these levels make nice line items in one’s resume showing yourself to be an action oriented, dynamic citizen vs. a plodding worker bee or job holder. I bet you can name some more benefits. Give it a try!

means he’s sad, a distant stare means he’s excited...”

“ IE-CAMFT SPONSORS OUR ANNUAL LAW AND ETHICS TRAINING: WHAT DOES THE LAW EXPECT OF ME? PART IV BY DAVID G. JENSEN, J.D.”

-GARRY RALEY

On February 22nd we convened for our annual meeting with CAMFT Attorney and therapist seer, Dave Jensen for an update on legal and ethical issues. We knew from past years that he only became an attorney after his baseball career did not work out. Now we know that he is a frustrated rock musician ...and would rise to his level of incompetence if he ever needed to be an exterminator. Ask him how to work through a complicated case with multiple abuse, dangerousness, and court proceedings; just don't ask how to rid your office of vermin!

Dave began our sojourn by walking us through the record you want to make from “Red Dirt Girl” by Emmylou Harris. As he retorts often...the choice is how to be safe, safer, or safest. In the interest of making excellent records, he supports the “DIRT” framework over “SOAP”. Your record should clearly indicate: Who is the client, Why are they in therapy, Description of information and cultural issue, Interventions for goals and temporal issues, Responses of the client in and between sessions, and Treatment planning. Description(s), Intervention(s), Response(s), and Treatment Planning.

For really bulletproof records, Dave provided his twelve holes County Club. Assessment, Additional Assessment, Referrals, Diagnosis, Crisis Assessment, Crisis Evaluation, Prepare for the “Crisis Course” and research local crisis resources before you need them.

Crisis Management, Goals, Clinical Factors, Theoretical Orientation, Theoretical Relationship, and more Clinical Considerations. These reflect the BBS expectations...and explain why Dave isn't a professional golf pro. He closed this section with a practice exercise using “Gunpowder and Lead” by Miranda Lambert. She is DANGEROUS.

After the warm-up, we launched into the 170 slides that covered negligence. In the case of Lawlor v. Orlando, PhD., The Case of the Fortunate Psychotherapist, although negligent, the withering dissent confirmed that she was not responsible for client's death. In the case of O'Sullivan v. Presbyterian Hospital, The Case of the Unwanted Patient. The decision was “liability may not be imposed for honest errors of judgment but can and should ensue if that judgment was not based upon intelligent reasoning or upon adequate examination so that there has been a failure to exercise professional judgment.” This was followed with Fortinas v. Westchester County Medical Center. The court concluded “a decision that is without proper medical foundation...is NOT to be legally insulated as a professional medical judgment.” Assess, ASSESS, ASSESS! Unfortunately, I cannot write with the wit and engaging presentation of Dave and will forgo the longest case, Clouthier v. County of Contra Costa. Suffice it to say that governmental entities are not immune if professional standards are not met.

Everyone came back after lunch! On to the subject of CONFIDENTIALITY. Referring to Urbaniak v. Newton shed much light on a key issue: Privacy v. Confidentiality. The ruling gives the therapist another objection that may be made on behalf of a client. The Confidentiality of Medical Information Act (CMIA) found in Civil Code § 56 et seq. creates an obligation for therapist to consider privacy, with HIPAA and Welfare and Institutions Code § 5328.

In summary, follow Dave's Rule: Do not release any, and that means any, patient information without having a written authorization from the client, an ORDER from a judge (not just a subpoena), or clearance from your attorney. Further information was discussed regarding the details of “what” constitutes a proper authorization. There are NINE (9) Mandated Exceptions to Confidentiality, FOUR (4) Principles of Law, and TWENTY TWO (22) Permitted Exceptions. Consult, CONSULT, CONSULT!

Lastly, Dave served up the goulash of elder and dependent adult abuse. Amendments to California’s Elder Abuse and Dependent Adult Abuse Act found in the Welfare and Institutions Code § 15600 et seq. provides expanded definitions of terms and concepts such as dependent adult, reasonable suspicion, financial abuse, abandonment, isolation, and mental suffering. Dave informed us of the “Confidential Internet Reporting Tool” (CIRT) that many counties provide as an avenue for reporting elder or dependent adult abuse, and he encouraged each of us to find out if our local county has CIRT. Our homework assignment: find out the telephone and fax number for your local Ombudsman.

Dave skillfully walked us through the “minefield” of elder and dependent abuse reporting requirements and six scenarios. Five types of long-term care facilities were described, as the setting in which the suspected or actual abuse occurs affects reporting requirements. Most notably, reportable incidents in long-term care facilities involving physical abuse, residents with dementia, and/or incidents resulting in serious bodily injury have more stringent reporting requirements than other reportable incidents (see the Welfare and Institutions Code § 15630 et seq.).

With this final element covered, we bid Dave a fond farewell until next year! Please visit our website at www.ie-camft.org or contact me if you would like a copy of the handouts:

Using EMDR AIP Methods to Treat Adult Clients with PTSD

When: Saturday, March 23rd, 2013. On the following day, James Knipe will be offering a private training.

Where: The 9th Annual N Ca. EMDRIA Regional Meeting at Preservation Park in Oakland.

For Whom: Beginning and advanced EMDR practitioners from all over the state.

Cost: This year we were again able to hold the cost at $50 (including lunch, and EMDRIA CE credits). BBS credits are an additional $10

Presenter: Our presenter, James Knipe, PhD. is an internationally recognized expert on the use of EMDR with clients who present with self-defeating psychological defenses and/or dissociative symptoms.

Description: Typically, clients come to therapy with a mixed presentation, not only of difficult life experiences (big T and little t traumas), but also a history of conscious or unconscious choices about how best to soothe, contain or avoid the emotional disturbance that has resulted from those experiences. In this presentation, I will describe some specific methods of using bi-lateral stimulation to assist clients in "disinvesting" from defensive processes, particularly avoidance and idealization defenses, so that unresolved traumatic material may become more accessible to standard EMDR processing.

For more information and to register, please visit www.practicemagic.com/emdrregionalmeeting13.html or contact Natasha Shapiro at 510-612-3800 or emdrregionalmeeting@gmail.com.
